

EMERALD KEEPERS

Making Coronado Emerald Green, Ocean Blue

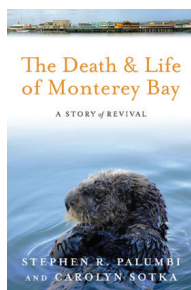

DR. STEPHEN PALUMBI, DIRECTOR OF STANFORD UNIVERSITY'S HOPKINS MARINE STATION TO SPEAK THURSDAY

Emerald Keepers is pleased to present an evening with author and Director of Stanford University's Hopkins Marine Station on Thursday evening (July 16) at 7pm. Dr. Palumbi will discuss his book, The Death and Life of Monterey Bay - A Story of Revival. You do not need to have read the book to join the webinar. Co-authored with Carolyn Sotka, the book has something for everyone: history, ecology, activism, hope, and change. Palumbi and Sotka tell the story of the recovery of Monterey Bay. Parallels can be drawn between the individuals and small groups who worked to save Monterey Bay and our Emerald Keepers who work to make our community more sustainable and care for our marine environments. His book is available at the Coronado Public Library and for purchase at Bay Books.

Dr. Palumbi has been featured on Today, TED Talks, the BBC series The Future is Wild and the History Channel's World Without People. Other recent films appearances include The End of the Line, and the Canadian Broadcasting series One Ocean. Major work continues on the microdocumentary project, the Short Attention Span Science Theater. Steve's band, Sustainable Soul, has several songs out, including Crab Love and The Last Fish Left.

Visit EmeraldKeepers.org for the link for tomorrow's webinar.

PLASTICS, MASKS, AND GLOVES, OH MY!

Don't let the pandemic damage our ocean. Dispose of trash and recyclables properly, and choose alternatives to plastics whenever possible. Carry your reusable bags. If a grocery store won't let you use them, place items back in your cart and load groceries into boxes or reusable bags at your car. We can do better, Coronado. Be an Emerald Keeper.

NADO BEACHCOMBER

Eccentric Sand Dollar

California Frog Shell

Wavy Turbin

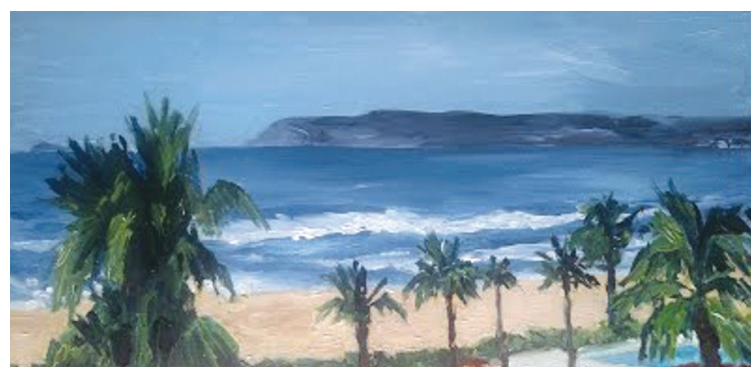

Kellet's Whelk

Lewis's Moon Snail

Photos by D'amy Steward

COLORING BY KARRIE JACKSON

Original painting of "The Point."

For more information visit EMERALDKEEPERS.ORG

Photo by Brian Lippe

Emerald Keepers is a 501(c)(3) non-profit corporation.